Agenda:
5:00–5:30 pm  Registration and Refreshments
5:30–7:00 pm  Workshop

Luba Dumenco, MD, FACP
Assistant Dean for Medical Education
Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University

Program Description:
When it comes to instruction that facilitates active learning, traditional large-group lectures are not the first things that come to mind. Yet there are many easily implemented strategies to integrate active learning into a lecture. This session will focus on a variety of those strategies including dilemma posing, think-pair-share, turn and talk, audience polling, picture prompts, review questions, and more. Please note that this session was previously presented at the June 2018 Active Learning Retreat.

This session will demonstrate the application of learning principles and will focus on the Core area of Presentation and Lecturing Skills.

Learning Objectives:
1. Describe the advantages of incorporating active learning techniques into large group lecture format
2. Describe potential challenges that could hinder the use of active learning techniques in a large group lectures
3. Identify an active learning technique that is applicable to current or future large group presentations

Credit Designation
Physicians: The Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University designates this live activity for a maximum of 1.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Psychologists: The Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University is approved by the RI Psychological Association to offer continuing education for psychologists. The Alpert Medical School maintains responsibility for the program. This activity is approved for 1.5 Category 1 CE Credits. Credits available to RI licensed psychologists only.

The Program in Educational Faculty Development at Alpert Medical School recognizes and supports our faculty and residents in their role as educators. We strive to provide participants with the knowledge and skills to teach in the classroom and at the bedside. All faculty and residents are welcome to attend these sessions, to be held at the Warren Alpert Medical School, located at 222 Richmond Street, Providence, RI.