College

Program Overview

This is the 7th Rhode Island Trans Health Conference dedicated to enhancing the health and well-being of the transgender and gender diverse (TGD) community. The conference will provide interactive, evidenced based learning for interdisciplinary professionals across the care continuum to increase comfortability and confidence in providing quality care for all TGD individuals. In addition to didactic presentations, attendees will have opportunities to learn from practitioners with lived experience and expertise in TGD health and wellness. Running concurrently to the Provider Track, the Community Track will hold space for the TGD community and their families to learn about available resources and build affirming space to intentionally connect, learn, and embrace joy.

Target Audience

This conference is designed for physicians, registered nurses, nurse practitioners, psychologists, physician assistants, social workers, medical students, residents, fellows, public health workers, community health workers, educators, licensed mental health care providers, and allied members of the healthcare team who care for transgender and gender diverse patients.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this activity, healthcare professionals will be better able to:

- Apply evidence-based practice guidelines and updated standards of care in their work with transgender and gender diverse (TGD) patients across the lifespan
- Identify specific challenges and barriers unique to TGD patients and ways to advocate for the TGD population in the healthcare system and beyond
- Develop an integrated practice that understands both medical and behavioral health needs and available resources for TGD patients
